

when did the people of america give up their airwaves for corporations to do with them as they please? the public never gave them away, they were stolen from us. it is detrimental for us to allow news conglomerates to monopolize the media b/c then we are only allowed to hear what the elite few want us to hear. the priveleged class will once again be able to project their views w/o having a counterspin or contrasting information. we are a few short years from the inevitable: one owner of all media-how grand, how 1984, how brave new world, how good for the few, how bad for america.
